

Poems Corner

All I ask for is you

As the walls close in,
 As the guard goes down,
 As you drift away
 I shiver.
 With no protection
 I feel so vulnerable,
 And open to the cold.
 You walked away,
 Leaving a hole in my heart
 Since I was born,
 You nursed me,
 And gave me support,
 Every time I fall
 You made me feel secure
 Then you left me
 Left me to fend myself
 Left me to fall
 And hurt myself.
 You provide me with everything,
 Everything but what I need the most.
 You don't understand
 That everything else doesn't matter
 All I need is you
 All I need is your strong walls
 All I need is to curl up and lay there
 To feel secure
 To feel strong
 And to feel at home

The greatest person

The greatest person I ever know
 Is the world best mother
 Even though the right path she shows
 I think sometimes she's bother

I've known her since I was born
 She takes very good care of me
 When I feel very bad and groan
 The one who's always there is she

In my eyes she's a beautiful dove
 Feeding and helping me to be the best
 She is the person I love
 In her old age I'll keep her in my nest
